National Women's Hall Of Fame

<http://www.greatwomen.org/home.php>

The mission is "To honor inperpetuity these women, citizens of the United States of America whose contributions to the arts, atheletics, business, education, government, the humanities, philanthropy and science, have been the greatest value for the development of their country."

The website gives an overview of the Hall of Fame as well as listing with biographies of the 195 members. This might be a great way for residents to become familiar with a not-so-famous woman who has made an impact

US Census Bureau

<http://www.census.gov/>

Facts and figures of women in the United States. Subjects include earnings, education, family, etc.

National Museum of Women's History

<http://www.nmwh.org/>

Under "Cyber Museum," there are resources like a timeline of Women's Suffrage and a quiz. In addition, there's an online tour of the museum that has some great information.
