Jaime Lyon & Petra Maier

This summer, Petra and Jaime have been researching ways to help diversify the CIEP’s students and teaching practices. It is our hope to do so by forming online connections and collaborating more with students and staff at different international universities. There are several goals to this form of communication:

1). students can practice English outside of the classroom with a wider audience
2). students from other universities will get a glimpse of life at UNI and want to study abroad here
3). teacher development with those in the same profession, but different areas of the world can be encouraged.